2023 Auburn Cord Duesenberg festival was a Duesy!

BY WILLIAM FLOOD

AUBURN, Ind. — Auburn wears its monikers, the “Classic Car Capital of the World” and the Birthplace of the American Collector Car Auction Industry” proudly. It’s for good reason; three of the most exquisite pre-war American car lines ever made — Auburns, Cords, and Duesenbergs — were either manufactured in or had ties to the city.

From 1900 to 1937, the Auburn Automobile Company operated from town, building American auto legends like the 654 Cabriolet and the Supercharged Boattail Speedster. Yet, even in the Roaring 20s — and certainly after the 1929 stock market crash — Auburns proved too costly for the American market and the company found itself in trouble. Enter transportation magnate E.L. Cord, a one-time Auburn manager, who owned everything from Stinson Aircraft to a Luxury automobile brand bearing his name. Cord acquired Auburn in 1926, the same year he also purchased Indianapolis-based Duesenberg.

That auto heritage spawned three world-class automotive museums that bring thousands of tourists annually to town. The Auburn Cord Duesenberg Automobile Museum, established in 1974, is the flagship. It’s housed in Auburn’s Art Deco former corporate

1940s bicycle rode away from Rowley with $128 bid

BY NANCY KELLY

ATTICA, Mich. — The September Rowley Auctions estates and consignment online auction provided 1,545 lots with a variety of fascinating and useful temptations. From sporting equipment and advertising signs to furniture and antiques, the selection was appealing. Prices here do not include the buyer’s premium. Shipping was available on some items, but not the larger ones such as the two golf carts that led the sale for final bid value. The 2002 Club Car 48 volt electric golf cart with new batteries, a restored paint job, and rear-facing back seat was reported to run and drive great. This very clean vehicle complete with charger pulled a final bid of $4,000. Not far behind, the 2012 E-Z-GO 48 volt golf cart with 6 inch lift kit (which allows installation of larger tires), good batteries, new tires, rims, and charger, also in clean condition and reported to run and drive great, finished at $3,950.

For the winter adventurer, the 2003 MX Z 700R yellow and black Ski-Doo Adrenaline Trail edition snowmobile provided an opportunity to take on the snowy terrain. Showing 4,800 miles, it sported a new track, push button reverse, and ran great. It required a final bid of $1,525 to take it home.

ingly rare GM Futurliner bus. In 1992 the Ford V8 Museum opened, celebrating Ford cars, trucks, and even farm machinery built from 1932-1953.

The museums are not the only attraction. For 67 years, the annual Auburn Cord Duesenberg (ACD) Festival has been drawing tens of thousands of visitors. The weeklong celebration starts the weekend before Labor Day with pre-festivities. Events continue throughout the week, with the activities culminating during the holiday

While events take place in multiple locations, there are three main venues. The first is downtown Auburn where the blocks around Courthouse Square are closed off for an open-air fair space. About a mile away, the Auburn Cord Duesenberg Museum holds events and hosts show cars. Finally, the

For those wishing to travel at a slower pace, the 1940s Hawthorne vintage 26 inch red bike originally sold by Montgomery Ward stores could be just the answer. This well preserved specimen showed some wear, but still drew a respectable final bid of $128.

Vintage advertising and product signs always seem to sell well. An unusual offering was a portion of a Sinclair Gas station sign. This remnant consisted of just the first 9 feet of the large green and white porcelain sign, boldly displaying the letters “SIN”. Despite some minor damage, this eye-catching piece finished at $460. Many folks have fond memories of Faygo beverages, so the vintage white and green metal Faygo sign displaying the slogan “Enjoy Ice Cold Faygo” proved popular. Measuring 17 inches high and 32 inches wide, complete with a logo featuring two gold lions wearing crowns facing a letter “F”, it finished with a high bid of $308.

An unusual, electrified vintage 12 inch tall oil lamp was an interesting oddity. The strawberry-shaped metal base was supported by the hanging trunks of four metal elephant heads mounted on the sides and costumed with tasseled head dresses. There were also segments of branches and leaves on the sides. This unique treasure reached a high bid of $356. An electric lamp consisting of a lovely olive green and white stained glass shade supported by a sturdy bronze base standing 24 inches tall was not marked, but still managed a final bid of $258. A delicate electrified vintage cranberry hanging light fixture with hobnail shade was offered complete with all the original hardware, including the retired burner assembly. It found a new home with a final bid of $170.

There were some attractive furniture options that were popular with the bidders, starting with a matched set of Finch Fine Furniture end tables standing 27 inches tall. Each dark wood piece had two dove-tail drawers, original metal drawer pulls, carved legs, and a medallion with the company name. Despite some stains and slight wear, they still drew a favorable bid of $148 for the set. A massive 70 inch tall antique Hoosier cabinet was very solid and sturdy. It included many handy features such as a metal potato drawer with lid, a sliding rack, cutting board, and a knife holder. Painted white and in very good condition with ample storage space, this workhorse left with a high bid of $134.

A stunning 10K yellow gold ring embellished with numerous diamonds at a total weight of 14 grams was taken with a final bid of $258. A lot consisting of two gold rings and a gold filled band closed at $100, a trillion cut tanzanite ring with four gemstones also finished at $100, and an Olympus 14K gold lady’s wristwatch went for $77.

A small collection of four adorable Strawberry Shortcake dolls still in their original boxes by Kenner Products was offered. They featured the characters Baby Butter Cookie with Jelly Bear, Strawberry Shortcake, Apple Dumpling, and Raspberry Tart. The set of four went home with a final bid of $160. A vintage pair of black Latin percussion Matador series conga and tumba drums was taken with a high bid of $106. Another eye-catching item was the Art Deco Waltham inverted triangle 8-day wind up clock. It was originally found on the dashboard of a circa 1930 Hudson automobile and was installed before cars had electric clocks. This unusual collectible was claimed with a final bid of $158. Meanwhile, a set of four 18 inch Michelin X-Ice winter snow tires proved that practical and useful items were also appreciated, drawing a final bid of $228 for the set. This only begins to touch on the vast array of items that were available at this great auction.

Upcoming auctions offered by Rowley Auctions can be viewed at <https://rowleyauctions.com/>.

SEPTEMBER 24TH COINS, CURRENCY, TOKENS, GOLD & SILVER LIVE AUCTION

SUNDAY, SEPT. 24th, 2023

12:00 NOON AUCTION STARTS

10:00 AM PREVIEW

LOCATON: COMFORT SUITES UNIVERSITY AREA, 52939 US 933 NORTH

SOUTH BEND, IN 46637

We hope you had a fantastic Summer and are looking forward to our Fall offering. There's no let up in the heat though as this sale is HOT, HOT, HOT!! Our consignors have really come up with some spectacular lots for this sale.

HIGHLIGHTS IN THIS AUCTION INCLUDE: Spectacular US Gold coins; graded and ungraded, beautiful Morgans; including 89-CC, 93-CC, and an 84-CC, amongst many fantastic examples.

Like Classic Commemoratives? No problem, there's plenty here for you. Perhaps you prefer Currency or Civil War tokens, do not fear they are all here, including but not limited to a breathtaking 1899 $5 "Chief". All this and I haven't even mentioned the wonderful Early, Indian, and Wheat Cents, the US Silver coinage including a COMPLETE SET OF BARBER QUARTERS!! There is so much in this auction I could go on and on but you really need to come and see for yourself!

This auction has 300 lots and we expect it to take a little over three hours, as always our goal is to have everyone on their way home before 4:00 pm.

Please check out a complete auction listing at: auctionzip.com our auctioneer ID is 14781

Square outage impacts retailers worldwide

BY WILLIAM FLOOD

On Thursday, September 7th, payment processor Square experienced a service outage impacting tens of thousands of sellers worldwide who found themselves unable to accept credit cards or access vital business records.

Just before noon Pacific Time on Thursday, Square identified a service disruption at a data center. According to Web watchdog Down Detector, users started experiencing problems around 2:30 Thursday afternoon, eventually peaking around 4:30 on Friday.

Although Square posted updates on its status page and on the X platform (formerly Twitter), users needed more direct lines of support. Users couldn't access live help and weren't informed via email until almost 7:30 Friday evening. Many expressed frustrations over being left in the dark. "Square gave zero communication... which I understand may have been part of the crash but even on social media nothing was said until 8 hours into the crash," said the president of the Elm Grove, West Virginia Business Association.

In that first email to users, Square simply acknowledged the situation, saying, "Since around noon [Pacific Time] on Thursday, sellers have been unable to access accounts or process payments due to a systems outage within Square. We know you trust us with your business, and these situations add challenges to running your operations. For that, we are truly sorry."

On its status page, Square indicated the outage particularly impacted Square

Stands and readers connected via USB on point-of-sale systems, inordinately affecting stores, like antique shops and malls, that use Square as their cash register. Square's team tried to deploy fixes and posted on X about workarounds like using offline payments. However, many discovered that "Offline Mode" wouldn't even function. One retailer had his employees resort to writing down credit card numbers to enter later. Many discovered offline transactions weren't credited, meaning merchandise potentially left their stores unpaid.

Given the number of shoppers who pay by credit card - and Square's 2-million+ user base - the outage had profound financial implications. In an NBC News interview, Pennsylvania restaurateur Adam Blackbill said he'd lost between $8,000-$10,000.

Some retailers, like Vintage Flip in Lake Mills Wisconsin, tried to operate on a cash or check basis. Owner Jennifer Vallier informed her customers, "Please be prepared to pay by cash or check for the remainder of business today. We hope the outage will be corrected prior to open of business tomorrow." Others, like The Burg Boutique Resale in Roseburg, Oregon opted to close early. "Due to a nationwide outage of the Square POS System, we cannot take any payments! Therefore, we have decided to close down tonight."

Businesses with nearby ATMs had an advantage as did those comfortable using peer-to-peer alternatives like Venmo. Unfortunately, one of the more popular ones, Cash App, is owned by Square's parent company and was also impacted by the outage. That left customers frustrated. One Michigan show attendee said, "What a pain trying to pay and nothing works."

No less important, problems extended beyond credit card processing. Many vendors utilize Square's backend for their businesses and reported that everything from invoices to shipping information was inaccessible. The Square status page confirmed disruptions to billing, balance checking, and transfers. Likely Finds Antique Boutique in Tillamook, Oregon said, "I can't even access my inventory to look up prices."

While the outage was regarded as nationwide, the effects were global. Vendors as distant as Australia were impacted. The Junee Licorice & Chocolate Factory in New South Wales had to resort to all cash payments. "Eighty percent of our customers pay with a card and that isn't happening today because of technical issues with Square."

By late Friday Square had things resolved - fortunately, before businesses and events opened Saturday. Still, vendors at shows like Marietta, Ohio's Sternwheel Festival came prepared for cash-only transactions in case problems recurred. At Philadelphia's Market of the Macabre, sellers like Jodi Cachia alerted their customers, "Square is recovering from a big service outage that took place yesterday. A lot of vendors (like me) use this platform to take credit card payments. It would not be a bad idea to come with cash in case they aren't back up 100%"

Even local officials took preemptive measures to inform visitors coming to their area's events. In advance of the Fremont Colorado Antique Show and Flea Market, the local Business Association posted on Facebook, "If you plan to shop tomorrow, maybe take cash just in case the system is still down." Unfortunately, at events that began Thursday or early Friday, vendors had to wade through the challenge.

On Monday around 8:30 AM, Square finally emailed users with an explanation. "While making several standard changes to our internal network software, the combination of updates prevented our systems from properly communicating with each other and ultimately caused the disruption. The issue also affected many of our internal tools for troubleshooting and support, making them temporarily unavailable. There is no evidence that this was a cybersecurity event or that any seller or buyer data was compromised by the outage."

This outage is a reminder of the hazards of entrepreneurs being overly dependent on technology - and highlights why cash still has its place. While card-taking and peer-to-peer payments may be favored, small businesses should always prepare for cash transactions at their stores and during events.

grounds of Worldwide Auctioneers and the Ford V8 Museum, about four miles from downtown, are the site of the live auction and the largest of the swap meets.

Things kick off the Saturday prior to Labor Day weekend with “Cheers to the Festival” featuring cars, cocktails, hors d’oeuvres, and a VIP parade. On Sunday, it’s the “Annual Garage Cruise.” You can tour area garages for a behind-the-scenes peek at their facilities and restoration projects.

On Tuesday, 50 Auburns, Cords, and Duesenbergs head out on a circuit known as the “Hoosier Tour” to promote the ACD festival. They arrive back at the Auburn Cord Duesenberg Museum in the afternoon.

Wednesday the auction preview begins at the headquarters of Worldwide Auctioneers. There, you can see hundreds of world-class cars and pieces of memorabilia before they are auctioned during the live sale that runs the rest of the week.

Thursday, the swap meet opens on the grounds of Worldwide Auctioneers. It includes a car corral with acres of vehicles and over 100 vendors selling petroliana, classic car parts, and antique automotive collectibles. At Eckhart Park, about 12 blocks from Courthouse Square, the ACD Club holds its swap meet that focuses on ACD items.

Thursday and Friday, locals begin opening their yard sales. While auto collectibles are common, antiques from the 1920s-1930s, which reflect the ACD era, are also prevalent.

Likewise, local boutiques begin spotlighting their early 20th-century merchandise for shoppers.

Friday, it’s the cruise-in with upwards of 800 antique and classic cars landing downtown. Auburns, Cords, and Duesenbergs line 9th Street between Jackson and Main. Another 300 classic cars hosted by the Auburn Cord Duesenberg Car Club are stationed at Eckhart Park. On Saturday, during the “Parade of Classics,” ACD owners drive their vehicles throughout town, eventually parking them around Courthouse Square. If you’re lucky, you can score a “Ticket to Ride” in one of two dozen classic cars that will take you on a fantasy ride through town.

There are also 1920s-1930s-themed events to enjoy. The “Legacy Gala” held Thursday night at the ACD Museum features food, cocktails, and entertainment amidst the museum’s collections. Proceeds help support restoration projects. On Saturday night, it’s the “Gatsby Gala Ball.” Don your best Roaring Twenties attire and dance the night away
