ACROSS THE AUCTION BLOCK

$30,000 smoked the competition for cigar store Indian

This highly decorative Palomino carousel horse once made its home at Belmont Park in San Diego and prior to that at the Santa Monica Pleasure Pier around 1916.

BY WILLIAM FLOOD

ROSEVILLE, Mich. — On February 26, Stefek's auctioneers hosted an exceptional "Masterpieces and Marvels" auction, showcasing Americana, indigenous and fine art, and cultural artifacts. Featured lots included a rare slot machine, and carousel memorabilia, alongside works by renowned artists such as Charles William Bartlett, John Mackie, Thomas McNickle, and J.N. Sartorius. A total of 236 lots were offered through Live Auctioneers, with many of the standout pieces coming from a single collection in Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich.

The auction's top bid of $30,000 was for a hand-carved wood cigar store Indian attributed to Thomas Brooks (American, 1826-1895). The 85-inch-tall polychrome figure, in good condition, came from the Grosse Pointe collection. It depicted a Native American woman in a feathered headdress holding a snuff box, standing on a base that read, "Visitors Welcome" and "Cigars and Tobacco."

Also from the same collection, came another cigar store Indian that fetched $28,000. Attributed to Julius Theodore Melchers (German-American, 1829-1908) of Detroit, the 72 1/2-inch-tall polychrome figure depicted a Native American man with an animal pelt, tomahawk, and a bundle of cigars. The good-condition figure showing some wear and repair, came with a wood sign labeled "Chief of the Fox Indians." Also ringing up $28,000 was an Archaic Chinese bronze bell. The 15 by 10 by 11-inch patinated ritual bell, in good condition, was mounted on a custom black base.

Two other items also garnered strong five-figure bids. One was a New Century musical "Puck" slot machine by Caille Bros. Co., which sold for $17,000. This circa 1901 oak machine, standing 68

Erector sets have been building collections for years

BY LARRY LEMASTERS

Alfred Carlton Gilbert founded the Mysto Manufacturing Company in New Haven, Conn. In 1913 Mysto released its most famous toy — the Erector Set. Erector Set was a brand of metal toy construction sets that allowed children to design and build metal objects. In 1916 Mysto Manufacturing changed its name to the A.C. Gilbert Company

Myths abound, but it has been said A.C. Gilbert conceived the Erector Set in 1911 while watching the construction of steel girders to support power lines. He envisioned an educational toy that would encourage kids to create their own miniature buildings and construction models.

Even stories about Gilbert seem mythical. He was not only the inventor of Erector Sets, but he was also a graduate of Yale University, a medical doctor, and an amateur magician. He borrowed $5,000 from his father to found the Mysto Manufacturing Company. Gilbert's first products were magic tricks and kits. Later he manufactured glass-blowing kits, chemistry sets, microscopes, and mineralogy sets.

Most Erector collectors focus on the classic Erector Sets designed and sold by the A.C. Gilbert Company. Meccano bought the A.C. Gilbert Company in 1990, and continued selling Erector Sets as Erector by Meccano using nuts and bolts. Gilbert Company frequently advertised the toy's ability to fabricate a strong but lightweight hollow structural girder from four long flat pieces of stamped sheet steel, held together by bolts and nuts. Flat or curved pieces of sheet metal in various shapes and colors could be added to the structural skeleton. Hardened steel inches tall, featured a cast metal front panel, coin register, and legs, along with a colorful lithographed wheel covered by a metallic "puck" portraying a marble sculpture image. It was in good condition but untested. The second item was an Argillite "Sky Chief's Box" by Christian White (Haida, b. 1962), which sold for $11,000. The 11 ¼ by 9 ¼ by 5-inch box, signed and dated 2003, depicted animal heads and a figure in a boat as the topper and was in good condition.

Nearly three dozen lots received four-figure bids, including three antique carousel horses from the Grosse Pointe Farms collection. Leading the way at $5,500 was a 62 ¼-inch horse (including pole) by Marcus Charles Illions (Lithuanian-American, 1871-1949). Originally from the Illions Carousel at Bob-Lo Island Amusement Park in Ontario, the carved wooden horse featured glass gems, metal details including gilt angels, and a real horse hair tail. It was mounted on a pole with a gold-painted cast metal stand.

Also riding off with $5,500 was a painted Palomino carousel horse from the Belmont Park carousel in San Diego and at the Santa Monica Pier before that. The 80 ¼-inch (with pole) figure was hand-painted and was decorated with a bow and sheath of arrows along with a Native American head near the saddle. In good condition, it appeared to have been restored at some point. Following closely at $5,000 was an 82-inch (with pole) carved wood carousel horse with a brass pole, glass gems, and a real horse hair tail. It was in good condition with only minor flaws.

Other lots in the four-figure range included two circa 1919 prints by Charles William Bartlett (English, 1860-1940), a renowned artist who worked in Hawaii in the early 20th century. A framed 24 ¾ by 27 ¾ inch woodcut print entitled "Hawaiian Fisherman" depicting a man net fishing by the ocean, signed "CWB" bid to $7,500. The other, a framed 25 ½ by 20 ½ inch signed aquatint, entitled "Fishing in Hawaii" picked up $3,000.

Two hand-painted carousel panels by Herschell Spillman Company (American, early 20th century) sold for $1,200 each. The wood panels adorned with glass gems were both in good condition and likely restored. One, measuring 57 ¾ by 39 inches, featured two cherubs holding a plaque that read, "Herschell Spillman Co. Builders N. Tonawanda N.Y. U.S.A." The other, 53 ¾ by 46 ½ inches, included mirrored panels and was inscribed with "A Free Ride to Holder of Brass Ring," depicting a young girl holding a brass ring while riding a lion.

Around 80 lots earned solid three-figure bids, many featuring popular mid-century modern furniture. Among them was an American of Martinsville gentleman's chest by Albert Parvin, which sold for $700. In good condition with minor wear, the 48 by 38 by 18-inch chest featured diamond-pattern wood, brass pulls, two drawers, and two doors revealing three additional drawers. A matching Albert Parvin credenza with a mirror, with some conditional issues, sold for $650. The 30 by 70 by 18-inch piece had six exterior drawers, as well as two doors opening to three interior drawers.

In a different category came several pieces of Acoma Native American pottery that sold from $125

Above: Herschell-Spillman Company was the largest carousel manufacturer in the US between 1904 and 1920. Two Herschell-Spillman carousel panels were offered, going for $1,200 each.

Erector Sets

rods and screw clamps allowed the construction of hinges and the transmission of mechanical power via rotating parts such as pulley systems, gears, wheels, and levers.

Gilbert made certain that his Erector Sets were different than earlier wooden construction sets. Erector Sets used both static and dynamic structures, incorporating moving, mechanical linkages and components. Children had to erect objects and then figure ways of linking mechanical parts to the objects so they moved.

One of the most innovative features of Erector was its ability to build a model and then take it apart and build a totally different model — over and over again. Gilbert advertised, “Erector Sets are 100 toys in one.” As they became available, both electric motors and battery-powered motors were added to Erector Sets. These sets contained efficient gears to increase torque and mechanical power. Later Erector Sets included miniature, working light bulbs and simple switches, like model trains used, to control power.

Above: William Sewell and William Glenn built this Erector artificial heart, called the Sewell heart pump, in 1949, using an Erector Set. This pump now resides in the National Museum of American History.

Erector Sets became the most popular construction toy in America.

Gilbert Company issued its first Erector Set in 1913, calling it “The Erector/Structural Steel and Electro-Mechanical Builder.” These first sets were shown and sold at the Toy Fair held at the Broadway Central Hotel in New York City. Erector Sets were advertised as “Educational, Instructive and Amusing.”

Erector Sets underwent many name changes in the first few years of their existence. True Erector collectors strive to own at least one set bearing each of the names. Following its original name, the toy was called “The Mysto Erector, The Toy That Resembles Structural Steel,” the “Gilbert Erector, The Toy Like Structural Steel,” and, in 1924, Erector was renamed “The New Erector, The World’s Greatest Toy.”

One quick way that collectors “date” the age of an Erector Set is the type of box it is in and the color of the box. From 1913 through 1932, all Erector Sets were sold in wooden boxes, and from 1933 through 1962, these sets were sold in colorful boxes made of painted steel. The earliest boxes were painted in bright colors of red, green, or blue, but by the 1950s, all Erector Set boxes were painted red.

A.C. Gilbert died in 1961, and his company went into financial decline, filing for bankruptcy in 1967. By this time, however, the true glory days for Erector Sets had passed. Erector ruled the toy construction arena for 50-years, during the years

Above: Fully assembled, 1920s A.C. Gilbert’s White Erector toy truck. This magnificent model was offered, fully assembled, on eBay for $575.

Above: 1915 A.C. Gilbert Erector with wooden box. This set is not complete, but it highlights one of the earliest Erector Sets ever produced. It was offered on eBay for $80.

Below: Gilbert’s Erector Set #1, made from 1914-1928. Gilbert designed this and other early Erector Sets.

Above: Circa 1940s, Gilbert “Merry Go Round” Erector Set that is a Ferris wheel carnival set with horses. Wood carrying box is hand made. This set is valued at $405.

Interested collectors may view an extensive collection of A.C. Gilbert Company scientific and educational children’s toys housed at the Eli Whitney Museum, in Hamden, Connecticut.

2016 Indian flat track motorcycle raced to $50,025 at Miedema

BY KARIN MILLIMAN

BYRON CENTER, Mich. — Miedema recently had the honor of selling Ed Richter's Powersports collection, which included more than 200 motorcycles, dirt bikes, ATVs, and other sports collectible items.

The excitement mounted, and the bids kept rolling in, adding time to the bidding online for a flat track bike. This sought-after collectible had never been started, so it was in new condition. It was a chain drive, liquid-cooled ride. It was a real beauty and looked like it belonged in a museum. This 2016 Indian Scout flat track bike sported a competi-

cles. The Roadmaster was very sleek, almost all-black, with just a hint of glitter here and there to show off its grace. This powerful-looking machine brought a high bid price of $26,525.

Sticking with the Indian Jack Daniels collection, a 2017 Chieftain #96 fell just behind the Roadmaster. It was sold for an impressive price of $23,775. A 2022 Indian Jack Daniels Challenger was sold for $20,255, while a 2020 Indian Jack Daniels Springfield brought a bid price of $18,375.

Indian motorcycles proved to be the most sought-after at this auction. A 2017 Indian Chieftain LTD Elite motorcycle ended with an impressive bid of $18,225. Standing out with a very pretty orangish-red paint job, it was easy to see why this one was "elite". Powered by a Thunder-Stroke 111 engine, this impressive motorcycle would perform strongly anywhere it was ridden.

A 2022 Honda Goldwing DCT motorcycle brought a respectable bid of $16,751. This one sported a flat black finish and rode low to the ground. It looked like it could win any race, yet held a back seat for a passenger to ride along. The low-riding appearance made one think of going fast in the wind and holding on tight as the corners came and went quickly.

A large number of snowmobiles were also offered. A 1978 Ski-Doo 440 SS race sled snowmobile took top honors in this grouping. It sold for $9,675. It showed off twin cylinders and twin pipes and was liquid-cooled. A 1971 Ski-doo Blizzard snowmobile was sold for $8,676, while a 1977 Ski-Doo Above: Labeled an Elite, this 2017 Indian Chieftain LTD motorcycle roared out of sight for $18,225.

Blizzard LC Race sled brought a final bid of $8,101.

A Century wooden Runabout boat was sold. This gray marine inline six-cylinder motor-driven boat had a single-axle trailer with a two-inch ball. The unit was not titled, but the bids still came in. The beautiful wooden exterior glimmered and would make for an impressive picture of racing across the waves. It brought a final bid price of $11,550.

A gas pump came across the auction block and received a fair share of attention. It was a Bennett Indian pump with hoses and nozzles. The pump was double-sided and included the keys and a plastic globe. The globe sported an Indian Motorcycle emblem with a visible date of 1901. The last sale on the pump itself was $2.88 for 10 gallons, which wouldn't get anyone far today, even with a high-mileage engine. The unit sold for $4,535. In comparison, a Bowsler Harley Davidson gas pump with the hose, nozzle, and plastic globe sold for $3,105.

It wouldn't be a power sports auction without a couple of ATVs. A 2018 Polaris RS-1 ATV was sold for $9,176, while one that was just a year older was sold for $10,025.

For more information visit www.miedemauctioneering.com

Above: This runabout six-cylinder has a gleaming finish that shows off its wooden exterior. It would make a pretty picture in the water. It sold for $11,550.

Hull Pottery Association will host meet April 12 in Oklahoma

GLENPOOL, Okla. — The Hull Pottery Association (HPA) will host its regional show and sale on Saturday April 12. The event will be held at Frankoma Pottery in Glenpool. The show is free and open to the public.

The one-day show will feature dealers from around the country and hundreds of pieces of Hull Pottery for sale. Other American made pottery will also be for sale. The public will get the chance to learn more about Hull Pottery, HPA and meet long-time dealers and collectors. Additionally, guests will be able to see and learn more about Frankoma Pottery (Frankomapottery.com), an Oklahoma based pottery found in 1933 known for its use of Oklahoma clay and unique glazes.

The mission of HPA is to preserve, promote and educate the public about Hull Pottery.

Hull Pottery began production in 1905 in Crooksville, Ohio, under the leadership of Addis Emmet (A.E.) Hull. The company's early lines consisted of common utilitarian stoneware, semi-porcelain dinnerware and decorative tile. Hull continued production in Crooksville for the next several decades. During that time, the company introduced dozens of different lines including artistic/decorative lines, cookie jars, dinner-ware, planters and novelty pieces. Hull even survived a flood/fire in the 1950s. In the late 1960s through the mid-1980s, the company changed its production from artistic lines to predominately House 'n' Garden serving ware and Imperial florist ware. Hull Pottery closed in 1986. HPA is celebrating its 32nd anniversary in 2025. Learn more at Hullpotteryassociation.org
